

Checklist of items to bring to DTI Summerschool

During the period of the Summer School — from late August to early September — weather conditions in the Münsterland region can vary significantly. Participants may experience anything from cool, rainy days with temperatures around 15 °C and chilly nights to hot, dry summer days exceeding 30 °C. It is therefore essential to be prepared for a wide range of weather scenarios, including both sun and rain.

To support a productive and enjoyable experience, participants are encouraged to follow these general tips:

- Start each day with a proper breakfast to stay energized.
- Stay hydrated throughout the day, especially during outdoor activities.
- Wear appropriate clothing in layers to adjust to changing temperatures.
- Use sunscreen and insect repellent when needed.
- Get sufficient rest each night — the program can be physically and mentally demanding.
- Keep personal belongings safe and always carry essential documents.
- Stay open-minded and respectful in all group interactions — cultural exchange is a key part of the experience.

The following list outlines essential items that participants of the DTI Summer School should bring to be well-equipped for all activities and overnight accommodations.
